ENTER

When you're entering the wilderness of nature; standing by the foot of a mountain, by the edge of the woods or overlooking the sea you're about to dive in to – do it gracefully. Be present, grateful and open for new meetings and they will come. The same approach can be applied to you while entering a new workplace, home or public building.

FOREST BATH

Being in the forest calms us down. This wall mural with its soft green moss and magical natural light is perfect for a room or business who wants to convey peace and harmony.

The leaves have fallen to the ground and the branches of the tree are left naked.
A peaceful motif in all its simplicity.

R13631

MOUNT GIANT

These enormous mountains show, besides great strength, an inspiring color palette of burnt earth tones.

R16451

RELAX

Being in nature eases our minds, but did you know that just by looking at photos of nature our heart rate goes down and our breathing gets calmer? And of course, it doesn't make it worse if the photos are taken by real passionate and professional photographers.

HOME OF GIANTS

Jotunheimen is a largely undisturbed mountain area in eastern Norway. The name means “home of the giants”. This mural displays a beautiful landscape view, untouched by mankind, except for one detail. Can you spot it?

PALE SHORE

For those who love the pale neutral color palette of the sandbanks on a cloudy day. The off-white beach and the soft gray clouds in the sky really set the mood.

TROLLTUNGA

“The tongue of a troll” is what Trolltunga in Norwegian means.
If you are brave enough to step onto the tip of the tongue, you will be staring down at the cold glacial waters 700 meters below you.
